

Curriculum sequencing

Curriculum sequencing is the most critically important part of your curriculum. Without the correct subject sequencing, children will not have the building blocks to create a robust subject or concept schema. An effective curriculum needs correct sequencing within and across the subjects so that concepts that span multiple subjects are cohesively mapped for maximum cognitive impact.

The diagram below demonstrates how the concept of climate is constructed and sequenced across our curriculum.

